Coolidge Suggests New Naval Arms Limitation

Notifies Congress in Special Message That He Has Sent Notes to Four Foreign Powers Suggesting That Treaties to That End Be Negotiated Without Delay at Geneva Conference.

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP).—Once more the United States has undertaken to lead the world toward a falling down of naval armaments. In a note to Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan, President Coolidge suggested that treaties to that end be negotiated without delay at a Geneva conference.

The proposal would extend down to smaller warships the limitations imposed at the Washington conference on first class naval craft. The same proposal was made by the United States at the Washington conference, but failed of acceptance. In a special message to congress, announcing what he had done, Mr. Coolidge declared that, despite the principles laid down at the conference in 1921, "certain powers" have laid down far-reaching naval building programs suggesting the shadow of another world wide race among nations to outbid one another.

He suggested also that the Geneva discussions, initiated by the League of Nations, are threatened with deadlock if the powers proceed along their present lines of negotiation. So far as land and air armaments are concerned, the President evinced a willingness to let foreign powers work out an agreement or even one. The land and air forces of the United States, he said, are at a minimum and "constitute a threat to none."

Congress Surprised.
The message fell upon Congress without warning, in the midst of a controversy over the construction of new cruisers. Overriding the president's recommendations, the senate has voted to authorize this construction and the House, although once has rejected the proposal, appears disposed to accept the senate's recommendation. Some of the most influential leaders of the president's own party, including Speaker Longworth, have thrown their support behind the building plan.

Should Mr. Coolidge's suggestion be accepted by the powers, and treaties negotiated to carry it into effect, cruisers would be one of the classes of ships directly affected by limitation agreed upon.

Effect Not Apparent.
Sent to the Capitol by messenger, the special message was read in Senate and House early in today's session, but the possible effect on the cruiser plan was not immediately apparent.

Great secrecy had been observed in preparation and transmission of the American note to the powers. Apparently few senators or representatives had any inkling of its contents until the message reached the Capitol and some members of the cabinet expressed surprise when they heard of it. Arrangements had been made, however, for publication of the note through the American embassies abroad, simultaneously with delivery of the President's message to Congress.

Text of Note.
The text of the note to the powers is included in the message to Congress. It said in part:
"Although hesitating at this time to put forward rigid proposals as regards the ratios of naval strength to be maintained by the different powers, the American government, in its part, is disposed to accept, in regard to those classes of vessels not covered by the Washington treaty, an extension of the 35-45 ratio as regards the United States, Great Britain and Japan, and to leave to France and Italy, taking into full account their special conditions and statements in regard to types of vessels in question."

Limitations for capital ships and aircraft carriers were established by the treaty which would not be altered in any way by the agreement covering other classes of vessels.

The President said the American desire at Geneva would have been to negotiate definitely binding, measures or further limitations, and if they are to reach an agreement with representatives of the other powers, the American government will be one of the most desirous of maintaining peace and order and will be ready to lead to war.

Shriners' Ball Surpassed All Former Successes

Tremendous Crowd Attend Red Fez Ball and Enjoy Elaborate Musical Program, Dancing and Refreshments—Nice Amount Realized For The Industrial Home.

The 1927 Shriners' Ball for the benefit of the Industrial Home held at the New York state armory Wednesday evening eclipsed all former successes ever staged here by the local wearers of the red fezzes. Records were broken with care free abandon by the local Shriners in staging this monster social affair.

One of the largest, if not the largest, crowds in the history of the armory was assembled beneath the large drill shed and special mention should be made of the splendid manner in which the attendance was accommodated.

Another record established and deserving of great praise was the entertainment, the most pretentious operatic and vaudeville program, ever displayed here by the Shriners and which completely astounded the record attendance, estimated at over 2,500.

Crowd Arrives Early.

The announcement that the doors would be opened at 7 o'clock and that the early arrivals would be well repaid for their effort was taken very seriously by many. Immediately after opening time the very attractive ball room was being occupied. The elaborate musical program was begun at 8 o'clock and the early hour helped greatly in making the affair the success that it proved to be. American flags again formed the major part of the very artistic decorations, together with the white and green streamers. Overhead and along the balcony were strung orange colored balloons. The refreshment booths also presented a very pretty and inviting appearance. Sparkling gowns of the dancers added to the pretty picture.

Musical Delight.

The music by B. F. Rolfe and his Palais D'Or orchestra and Harry Maister and his augmented Kingston orchestra was very delightful. Loud enough to carry to the farthest corners of the big shed, it nevertheless lost none of its harmony and melody. The best proof that the music was enticing and greatly enjoyed could be drawn from the number who continuously danced to the charming tunes.

Acts Scored Big Hit.

The very elaborate musical program was justly applauded and continued for two hours. Many artists of the highest ability were on the program and were greatly appreciated. The Hemstreet Singers of the Hemstreet School of this city, personally trained by Mrs. Lillian Miller Hemstreet and composed of Natalie Malowans, first soprano; Letitia Bonta, second soprano; Olive Sibley, alto; and Marian Adams, second alto, rendered a very sweet program and on every hand one could hear warm words of praise for the talented young ladies.

The program of entertainment was one of the most beautiful undertakings of this character ever staged here, each number having a very special appeal. Some of the most notable and probably best known acts to the music world was presented by Miss Anna Myers, star of the Metropolitan Opera Company, an artist of outstanding ability; Marcel Hardy of the Grand Opera Company; The Metropolitan Opera Quartet, Cooper and Rodello of the New York Winter Garden. There were also many high class Keith acts. A total of thirty-seven performers took part in these acts.

Lewis a Real Master.

John P. Lewis, New York theatrical man, who as master of ceremonies presented each act, was in himself a tremendous success in his unique style of introducing the artists.

Mr. Lewis expressed the pleasure of all the artists in being able to help in so worthy a cause and paid high tribute to Mrs. Philip Elting, president of the Industrial Home, who he said was entirely responsible for the appearance here of the artists and himself. Philip Elting on behalf of the Shriners, thanked Mr. Lewis and the artists for the splendid manner in which they presented their part in this successful social event.

Nice Sum Realized.

A very nice sum was realized for the Industrial Home for in addition to the large number of admissions the refreshment, luncheon and cigar booths did a hand office business.

The fine spirit which attracted this record crowd—the dual purpose of enjoying a pleasant evening and helping a worthy cause—displayed itself in another form when every one expressed and exhibited their pleasure despite the inconvenience resulting from the huge size of the crowd.

Awarded $10,000 Prize.

Philadelphia, Feb. 10 (AP).—His work in raising money from the Shriners, an instrument of his own invention for the removal of foreign bodies from the bronchial tubes, lungs and stomach, has won for Dr. "Cecilia" Jackson of the Jefferson Medical College, the 1926 Philadelphia award, a $10,000 prize created by Edward W. Bok.

Dance at West Shookan.

A dance will be held Saturday night in the West Shookan hall, West Shookan, under the auspices of the Shriners.

Duel With Golf Clubs and Balls

Argument Followed by Novel Method of Fighting Which Ends with Appearance of Constable.

Orlando, Fla., Feb. 10 (AP).—The story of a duel at fifty yards with golf clubs and balls came out of Howey-in-the-Hills, near here, today.

E. W. Willeon of St. Louis and T. V. McQuinn of Syracuse, N. Y., disagreed as to the number of strokes each took in negotiating the Dubard course. They had words, then an argument and finally a fight.

It was agreed that each was to have one driver, one iron and two dozen balls. At fifty paces fees were carefully prepared. At the drop of a hat, the duel started. Several shots were high and wide and then one duelist knocked his antagonist down with a one shot to the shin. He couldn't keep his eye on the ball however, and before he could get the range his opponent was up at him with an iron. He evened honors in three shots by sending a fast one to the other's ribs. "Passersby, attracted by what at first appeared to be a spirited practice session, became alarmed. Constable E. C. Scott was called. He arrived just as the iron shots began to whistle.

"Fore," shouted the constable. The duellists paused, one with a limping stance, and the other bowed as if for a putt. Scott approached the couple, pistol at the ready, and seized their weapons. An amicable settlement was effected.

Arrest Actors in Stage Clean-up

Forty Arrested in Three Broadway Theatres for Participation in Alleged Immoral Productions—Repeated Arrests at Every Performance.

New York, Feb. 10 (AP).—Forty actresses, actors, producers, and managers, arrested in three Broadway theatres last night for participation in alleged immoral productions, were under bond today pending further hearings.

Repeated arrests will be made each night the plays are produced, Acting Mayor Joseph McKee has announced.

"Police will be on hand with instructions to make arrests if there is any repetition of these alleged crimes," Mr. McKee said. "We are determined to clean up this situation in the New York stage and I hope that other productions will take notice. I include musical comedies and cabarets, against which we are taking similar action if investigation shows they are violating the penal code."

"Sex," "The Captive" and "The Virgin Man" were the plays raided last night. Mae West, star of "Sex," Basil Rathbone and Helen Menken of "The Captive," and Doris Dillaway and Dorothy Hill of "The Virgin Man" were held in $1,000 bail when they were arraigned last night. Bail in the other cases was placed at $500. No testimony was taken at the arraignments.

Respondents from "The Captive" and "The Virgin Man" will be heard next Monday afternoon while the members of the "Sex" troupe will be arraigned again next Tuesday. Of the respondents, 21 are from "Sex," 11 from "The Captive," and eight from "The Virgin Man."

"The Captive" and "Sex" were recently acquitted of immorality or indecency by the Citizens' Play Jury, sponsored by District Attorney Banton, who had pledged acceptance of their verdicts. "Sex" had been running 11 months. "The Captive" is in its fifth month, and "The Virgin Man" is in its third week.

Higher bail will be required if any of those arrested last night are taken into custody again. Assistant District Attorney Albert Unger, aiding in the prosecution, said, "Arrests will be repeated at every performance, authorities said, unless the plays are withdrawn or modified to conform with the penal code section prohibiting indecent productions."

Acting Mayor McKee voiced the confidence of the authorities for victory in the campaign. "Regarding the usefulness of an injunction proceeding against the police," he said, "the city has the utmost confidence that the courts will stand for decency."

BANKS PREFERRED JAIL TO PAYING $10 FINE.

Richard Banks is serving ten days in the Ulster county jail in default of paying a $10 fine imposed upon him by Judge Mackay at Edgewood. Banks was arrested by Under Sheriff Doyle on a charge of assault in the third degree preferred against him by a colored woman. She alleged Banks threw her off the porch of his house Wednesday when she was "looking for her husband." He admitted to Justice Mackay that he had placed his hands on the complainant.

Business Certificate Fined.

Mary A. Donovan of 232 West 57th street, Kingston, has been fined $10 by the Ulster county clerk under the provision when the defendant is charged with assault, was the assistant district attorney, Frederick G. Traver, Esq., district attorney, attorney for People, (Gleason R. Murray, Esq., assistant district attorney for counsel.) John W. Eckert, Esq., attorney for defendant.

MEMORANDUM

STALEY, J. The defendant moves upon the grand jury minutes to dismiss the indictment against him upon the testimony of the defendant's evidence before the grand jury to sustain the indictment and upon the further evidence of the grand jury and the defendant's evidence before the grand jury to sustain the indictment and upon the further evidence of the grand jury and the defendant's evidence before the grand jury to sustain the indictment.

Hutton Charge Dismissed by Judge Staley

Says Examination of Grand Jury Minutes Shows Robert K. Hutton Acted In Self Defense—Inconceivable That Jury Would Convict Him of Assaulting Souder.

The attorney for Robert K. Hutton filed in the Ulster county clerk's office Wednesday afternoon an order granted by Judge Staley dismissing the indictment found by the grand jury in this county in December, 1925, against Mr. Hutton for an alleged assault upon one Harry Souder on the second day of August, 1925. Considerable attention was called to this case at the time because of the fact that Souder was an ex-serviceman and had only one arm, and it was alleged at the time that Hutton had assaulted Souder and inflicted a knife wound upon him which nearly resulted in his death. Hutton was arrested and taken before the city court where he waived examination for the grand jury, and no statement was ever made by him relative to the details of the affair.

The filing of the order in the county clerk's office together with the grand jury minutes and the other papers in the case, for the first time permits Mr. Hutton's side of the case to be given to the public. Mr. Hutton was before the grand jury, but before the grand jury, when examining before that body he admitted that he was waiting on the railroad track between Duane street and the Albany avenue bridge for Hutton, and that it was his intention to attack Hutton. He further admitted before the grand jury that he struck Hutton first, and that he cursed him.

Testimony of Eye Witness.
The only eye witness to the affair was one Harold F. Borrian, who was employed as a watchman at the "Downs street crossing of the Ulster and Delaware railroad. Borrian in his testimony stated that he was on duty on Sunday night when the affair occurred and was just about to close up the flag shanty and leave when he saw Souder walking up and down the tracks. A few minutes later, he saw Hutton walk up the track and heard Souder curse him. Upon hearing the noise, he turned and saw Souder attack Hutton, and saw that Hutton was endeavoring to get away. In his own words, "Hutton was running backwards, trying to get away from Souder," and ran into a telephone pole. This permitted Souder to combat with him at close range, and in the scuffle that ensued, Souder was injured by a pen knife.

Others Also Heard Threats.
Other witnesses testified to like threats, and upon all the testimony before the grand jury, Judge Staley held that it was inconceivable that any twelve fair and reasonable men upon the evidence produced before the grand jury would convict the defendant of the crime charged.

After the indictment had been found, John W. Eckert, who was the attorney for Mr. Hutton, moved for leave to examine the grand jury minutes, and to dismiss the indictment upon the minutes. The motion to inspect the grand jury minutes was granted and the present order arises out of the motion to dismiss the indictment on the ground that the evidence before the grand jury was insufficient upon which to predicate an indictment.

Throughout the proceedings John W. Eckert has requested Mr. Hutton, and The People were represented by the district attorney or his assistant.

Judge Staley's Opinion.
Judge Staley's opinion dismissing the indictment is as follows:

(Supreme Court Albany County Special Term, January, 1926.)

Legion Paris Trip Will Cost $250

Minimum Cost from Ulster County Estimated by Andrew J. Murphy, Jr., Ulster County France Convention Travel Officer—Expenses Itemized.

A trip to Paris for the ninth annual convention of the American Legion in September from Kingston, can be made with comfort for $250. It is estimated by Andrew J. Murphy, Jr., France convention travel officer for Ulster County. This figure will allow $48.95 for incidentals that the veteran may buy to make his trip more enjoyable.

While the cost of the Paris pilgrimage will vary with the taste and pocketbook of the individual Legionnaire, there will probably be many of the veterans who will make the journey with a minimum expense record. Legionnaires traveling on the expense record of $250 will live in luxury on the second trip over as compared to that first trip in wartime. Under the advantageous travel rates obtained by the Legion the veterans will spend less per day than the ordinary automobile summer tour in this country would cost.

The minimum expense record for the Paris convention as figured from Kingston by the Ulster county France convention travel officer follows:

Sept. 7, leave Kingston, Round trip railway fare to New York	$ 3.25
Sept. 8, sail on Cunard liner Caldonia, official New York state ship, minimum rate	145.50
Sept. 8-18, at sea
Sept. 18, service on ship to Land at Cherbourg, fare to Paris, round trip	4.50

HEBREW INSTITUTE PLANS ENTERTAINMENT

An enthusiastic meeting of the Hebrew Institute was held at 233 Wall street Tuesday evening and considerable business transacted. Reports were received from the building and ways and means committees. The Ladies' Auxiliary of the institute reported that they were planning an entertainment to be given in the near future. Owing to the fact that the Shriners' Ball was held Tuesday, the meeting was held Tuesday, although Wednesday is the regular meeting day.

Ambulance Calls Tuesday.

The city ambulance made three calls on Tuesday. Mrs. Melissa Lapoint was removed from Miller's Lane to the Benedictine Hospital; Mrs. R. C. Hudler from 41 West Chester street to the Benedictine Hospital and Mrs. Clinton from 317 Clinton avenue to the Kingston City Hospital.

state of mind and also the means by which he would carry out his intent; that the act charged against the defendant was justifiable, because committed in self-defense.

An indictment can only be found by a grand jury when all the evidence before them, taken together, is such as in their judgment would, if unexplained or uncontradicted, warrant a conviction by the trial jury. (Criminal Code, Section 268.)

It is inconceivable that any twelve fair and reasonable men upon the evidence produced before the grand jury would convict the defendant of the crime charged, and particularly so in face of the facts which so clearly justify the defendant. (Criminal Code, Section 268.)

The grand jury can receive some but local evidence. (Criminal Code, Section 268.) The grand jury was not under the circumstances, legal evidence of the facts asserted in it, and its finding to the grand jury was improper for that purpose. (People v. Becker, 235 N. Y. 324.)

Such statements are admissible in evidence only for the purpose of the fact that the defendant is dead and his testimony of the defendant's evidence before the grand jury to sustain the indictment and upon the further evidence of the grand jury and the defendant's evidence before the grand jury to sustain the indictment.

I shall not attempt to review all the evidence presented to the grand jury, only that which could possibly be given to the grand jury to sustain the indictment. It was not used for the purpose of sustaining the indictment.

The defendant moves upon the grand jury minutes to dismiss the indictment against him upon the testimony of the defendant's evidence before the grand jury to sustain the indictment and upon the further evidence of the grand jury and the defendant's evidence before the grand jury to sustain the indictment.

Business Men's Association to Hold Banquet

Downtown Business Men's Association Secures Expert in Modern Business Methods and Others as Speakers at Banquet at Jewish Community Center on February 21.

The first annual banquet of the Downtown Business Men's Association will be held in the Jewish Community Center, Broadway, Thursday, February 21, at 8 p. m. Prominent speakers will be in attendance to address the banqueters of whom it is expected, there will be many.

The executive committee promises that the program will be of great value as well as enjoyment to all who attend and hope that tickets may be plentiful enough that all may obtain a place at the banquet table. The members of the committee from whom tickets and information concerning the event may be obtained are: Abraham Handler, chairman; Harry Kaplan, Henry Lehner, Samuel J. Riber, Henry Singer, Nicholas Stock, Jr., and Louis Weber.

An excellent menu will be prepared and served by Max Ferentz, formerly of New York city, where he was known for his ability as a caterer. Tickets for the banquet are rapidly being disposed of by members of the executive committee and the numbers of admissions is limited to 100. Those who wish to attend the event will insure their chances of admission by purchasing a ticket at once.

The organization of the Downtown Business Men's Association is only five months in existence but during that time has advanced rapidly in every respect. Public welfare is one of the standards for which the organization intends to do much and at the banquet prominent speakers will inform the meeting of the projects that may be undertaken. The merchants will receive a wealth of knowledge from one of the most prominent experts in the modern methods of conducting business. The speaker will talk on store management and many other industrial topics will be covered for the benefit of the business men.

Licenses Revoked And Suspended

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Charles A. Harnett during the two weeks ended February 3 revoked or suspended 240 certificates of automobile registration and licenses to drive. Thirty-nine revocations and 290 suspensions were in New York city and vicinity. Forty-five revocations and 149 suspensions were in other parts of the state. There were two suspensions in the Albany district of which Kingston and vicinity is a part. The two whose licenses were suspended in this district were Arthur Lancaster, Ulster Park, charged with reckless driving, and Burton Decker, Port Ewen, charged with permitting an unlicensed operator to drive.

The fresh crisis in major-minor league dealings was brought about by refusal of the International and Pacific coast circuits to sanction the "universal draft" agreement, drawn up recently at French Lick Springs, Ind. The American Association is expected to reject the plan at its next meeting. The Western League, of class "A" standing, has already registered its disapproval of the document, although it contains provisions that the price of drafted players be increased from $5,000 to $7,500.

The joint "steering committee" of the American and National Leagues after discussing the problems yesterday, recognized the gravity of the situation by calling a special meeting of the clubowners of the two leagues to take place in June, probably in New York.

Winsome Fashions for Little Folks

Ampler Models Vie With Gay, Bouffant Frocks to Delight Sub-Deb.

At this time of year every woman is the mother of girls, big or little, is concerned with the wardrobe of her children. It is a matter of moment, the outfit that is being prepared; perhaps as important as the selection of dress will ever in youth present, says a fashion authority in a New York Times. That is, from a juvenile point of view, which is of more sophistication than perhaps the girls of a former generation knew; and every budding belle of to-day learns soon all about her type and what is the mode and what she prefers. Comparisons are potent factors, and the feminine experience of early comes early to stimulate ambition and to prompt the young lady, making her decisions. Not to be stylish is something not to be endured, and pretty clothes were long found to be the most direct way to the heart of a girl.

Styles for children reflect in a measure those for their elders and in some ways the frocks that little girls are wearing are in some features really miniature models copied after those in the collections of both French and American designers. They are more feminine, with full gathered, fitted, tiered skirts; new kinds of necks, new necklines, much shirring, ruffling, needwork and fine detail, of which contributes to a dainty finished quality in dress. That the manner of dressing a girl from babyhood to her teens has changed with the years is evident in the fashions. The well-dressed young girl of today is neither as much of a baby nor as mature and overdressed as one in former years. She is simply different, illustrating different standards and conventions. Even a tiny girl is not now beruffled and beribboned in frocks that were overelaborated with lace and embroidery. Simplicity is apparent in good style and good taste, though it is often a costly simplicity. Clothes of the better sort are handmade if they are of light fabric and almost all sorts have at least a touch of needwork. Some of the sweetest and most attractive things in girl frocks for girls from the age of five to fifteen and more are much embroidered in one way and another—the French embroidery, Italian lawnwork combined with embroidery and the present needwork patterns which are so strikingly decorative.

White for Midwinter Season. Much white is shown for the midwinter season, much all-white in both dresses and wraps, and some that is ornamented with needwork in the dress colors. Crewel embroideries are in the patterns from the Balkan states, together with cross-stitch and smocking in color, are all shown in the season's models, in both white and in colors. Colors in the clothes of children forecast something of the styles for a season ahead, an assortment of the most lovely shades. These are very important, for they present some distinct achievements in the

for children as for grown-ups, and most lovely shades are shown under the titles of bluebird, Italian turquoise, crayon, Flemish blue, French blue, glacier, and for practical frocks, russet, snubbed, sailor and dark navy blue.

Shops, particularly those that deal most in unusual things for children, are offering as the top note of the season the smocked frock for girls of all sizes. It is usually in one piece, with the yoke, girdle and cuffs fitted by the stitching, which is done in the same or in a contrasting color. A dark-blue crepe de chine for a girl of ten is smocked in scarlet floss, forming a yoke both at the neck and at the waist to a line over the hips. Below the fullness of the skirt is laid in narrow plaits and the wide sleeves smocked at the wrist are left to ruffle over the hand. This model, made in brown, green, tan and in-red, is a practical, comfortable and always chic little frock that is suitable for many occasions. In the pretty light shades or in white, smocked in colors, sometimes with embroidery introduced, it serves charmingly for dancing school, the mainline and many informal daytime parties.

Jersey for Everyday Frock.

Jersey is the answer to the everyday frock for a girl of almost any age and, this season, is much used for very little ones. In the smallest sizes it is usually cut in one piece, rather roomy, with shirring at the neck and the wrists of full sleeves. Bloomers made of the same goods are made to just peep below the dress. Dresses for larger girls are more complex, with insets and sections of material, either the same or in a contrast. Plaids are very good this season, not as much the large fancy plaids as the traditional tartans used alone or combined with plain goods.

A stylish little everyday frock for a girl between the years of eight and twelve is made of the new checked and plain velveteen. A straight jumper-blouse of the plain goods has a shirt-bosom front, Byron collar and cuffs of the check of which the box-plaited skirt is made. A distinctive detail is the rakish line of the shoulders and a finished appearance is given to the outfit with narrow ribbon tie at the neck. Wool plaid is used for a smart frock that closes at the neck with a narrow linen collar and is buttoned down the front. The material is cut to present the plaid diagonally in the frock itself and a width of the goods sewn around the bottom of the skirt terminates to form deep pockets in front. With this dress is worn a narrow belt of black patent leather, black patent pumps and a tam of black velvet.

For Afternoon and Evening.

Afternoon and evening dress for girls is more pretentious than it has been for several years. In the more substantial materials, velvet, satin, taffeta and crepe are shown. Some of the designs are ultramodern, some are quaint period frocks. Taffeta is used for an evening dress made after a French conception, in champagne taffeta, with skirt gathered full, and a large cape-collar attached to a plain bodice. A wide band of pink tulle borders both the skirt and the cape. A crepe satin dancing frock in a lovely shade of yellow is sleeveless, with a round neck in the bodice which blouses slightly over the hips.

Metal lace and pearls velvet are put together in a clever design in an evening dress for a girl of sixteen or older. The bodice and under skirt being made of the lace and the under skirt being made of velvet is draped in the striking manner of Louise Bonaparte, ending in a bow at the back. Lace, both in the silk and metalized is used in some exceedingly pretty dance frocks, with velvet or silk ribbon feather trimming and fur. A silk dress of pale-blue tulle has a shirred, round neck yoke of silver-threaded lace. The short full-skirted skirt is attached to the blouse with three rows of blue velvet ribbon with a bow and ends at one side and the bottom of the skirt is finished with a band of white fur.

The Truth Pays In Advertising

(As Seen by William Morrison of the Ulster County Dairies of Kingston.)

Listen! The cleverest man in the world is the man that tells the truth, and tells it all the time, not occasionally.

Sometimes you can profit by a lie, but it is like dodging bullets; you never know when you are going to get hurt.

Lying is a game. Sometimes it is a very exciting game. But it is essentially gambling. And gambling, any sort of gambling, is not business.

The fundamental laws of business are just as accurate and as well established as the principles of geometry.

It is hard to see this, for our visual range is limited. Most of us can see the crooked dollar coming today, but not the ten straight dollars it is going to lose tomorrow.

Real business success is cumulative. It grows like a snowball. And the one thing that makes it keep on growing, even while we sleep, is our persistent truthfulness and dependability.

If you put an advertisement in the paper announcing goods worth five dollars for sale at two dollars, and if the people come and buy, and find out the stuff is not worth ten cents, you may make a one day's gain, but you have alienated a lot of indignant customers, and have started to saw away the paste that sustain your reputation.

If you are in a town to stay, and want regular, returning, increasing satisfied customers, it will pay you to stick to the old-fashioned truth.

Exaggeration is lying. It does not take long for the people in the community to get the habit of discounting twenty-five per cent of all you say.

If you continually overstate and vociferate you must keep on getting louder, until you soon become incoherent.

But if you habitually state only what is soberly, honestly true, by and by everything you say will be away above par.

A man's reputation for truthfulness is as much a part of his capital as are his store and stock; so much so that he can raise money on it.

As civilization progresses, business becomes more and more an affair of credit, of trust. The very foundation of big business is trustworthiness. Therefore, if you are ever going to be successful you must establish a basis of dependability.

There is not one thing in this world, that can be of as much value as building up a reputation such that man will say, "Your word is as good as your bond."

It is worth while to have the people say, "Whatever that man says can absolutely be relied upon."

You absolutely can rely upon the truth of the advertisements of The Ulster County Dairies, of 34 John Street. Whatever is advertised by them is 100 per cent the truth. Their word is their bond. Look at their advertisement in today's paper.—Advertisement.

LAST NIGHT on the RADIO

Wednesday evening was toothpaste night on the radio, two of the principal features being put on by toothpaste makers. Both were good. Reception, excepting from the big three and the Cincinnati and Cleveland stations, was generally weak, sounding as though the performers were covered with a heavy blanket. This condition came about 7 o'clock and continued.

The WDBZ Boy Scout program was clear and good, and short enough not to weary.

Mary Lewis, prima donna soprano of the Metropolitan Opera and well known concert artist, who made her radio debut last season in the Atwater Kent Hour, will broadcast again under the same auspices, Sunday night, February 13.

Miss Mary Garden, soprano, of the Chicago Opera Company, Emilio De Gogorza, baritone, and Hans Barth, pianist, are announced as the artists who will present the fourth 1927 radio concert of the Victor Talking Machine Company, on the evening of February 18, through WJZ, WBZ, KDKA, KTW, WHAS, WSB, WMC and WSM.

Napoleon Had Planned

Unification of Europe

But though he dismisses Fouché from his ministerial post and has the watchman watched, Napoleon cannot get on without him and talks to him about the most private matters.

"Since my marriage people fancy that the lion is asleep. They will soon learn whether I am asleep. I need 800,000 men and have them; I shall tow all Europe in my wake. Europe is nothing more than an old woman and with my 800,000 men I can make her do whatever I please. . . . Did not you yourself say to me, 'You let your genius have its way, because it does not know the word impossible?' How can I help it if a great power drives me on to become dictator of the world? You and the others, who criticize me today and would like me to become a good-natured ruler—have not you all been accessories? I have not yet fulfilled my mission and I mean to end what I have begun. We need a European legal code, a European court of appeal, a unified coinage, a common system of weights and measures. The same law must run throughout Europe. I shall fuse all the nations into one."—From "Napoleon, the Man of Destiny," by Emil Ludwig.

Chest Colds

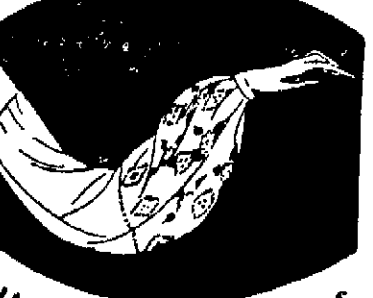

Need Direct Treatment

It is an obstinate cold indeed that can resist the direct double action of Vicks. Rubbed on the chest, it acts 2 ways at once:

- (1) Direct to air passages with its healing vapors released by body heat;
- (2) Direct, like a poultice, it "draws out" the soreness.

ELEANOR GUNN ON FASHIONS

Africa's Brilliant Sunshine Discloses Much Navy and a Preference for Brown Rather Than Gray Furs, Shoes, and Accessories.

Cairo, Egypt.—This particular corner of the globe has become perhaps the most expensive in the world. From this it should follow that it is a good vantage point from which to review fashions. It may not follow that the fashions are the most extreme, for women of means are rather prone to be conservative in the manner of their dressing. They are inclined to reject the unusual, especially if it has any tendency to attract the populace.

One feels confident after carefully surveying the moving throngs arriving and leaving here that navy has been accepted by the better class of women. They are using it more than for travel than the tan and beige ranges that have colored scenes for a few seasons. Gray is worn to some extent, but the gray shadows that covered Paris, as well as the gray reflections in hats and accessories, seem to have been displaced by this brilliant African sunshine.

Navy is the dominating note, by day, with a sufficient number of Burgundy costumes to make one feel at home. As was usual in Paris, the navy costume, generally including a coat, is furled in either beige, brown, or gray. There appears to be a preference for minks, sables, and martens among the women seen here about, certainly among the women not in the young set. There are two very smart Frenchwomen here who wear mole coats, changing their color scheme with their hats, which always correspond to the flower worn.

So far, gray furs have been secondary in importance to brown, and gray furs have been secondary to navy, and one might say, less important than beige. Of course, it is much simpler and more practical in the matter of shoes and gloves to assemble tans than grays.

What Mrs. Carrie Short, 128 Tremper Ave. says:

I could hardly believe all those letters that women write about Rinso—until my grocer got me to try a package. Why, it's just wonderful! I use it for everything now—the week's wash, and house-cleaning, too. Rinso certainly gets my clothes whiter than I have ever seen them. And I don't have to do any hard rubbing at all. Even boiling isn't necessary any more—and that means a saving too. Besides, the clothes not only look newer after a Rinso washing, they wear longer, too; there's so little rubbing. Another thing: it doesn't hurt the clothes a bit. Rinso is also fine around the house for such things as dishes, floors, and sinks.

MRS. CARRIE SHORT,
128 Tremper Avenue, Kingston, New York.

Millions use Rinso. Thousands write us letters like this.

Just think! This snowy wash never touched a washboard —it was just soaked whiter!

AND this is only one wash. Millions of washes all over the country are now being soaked whiter every washday.

Women everywhere are giving up old-fashioned washday habits. Why scrub and boil when this way soaks clothes cleaner! Whiter and brighter than ever!

It's the Rinso suds that do it. Here are real suds that loosen dirt and stains—not just soap bubbles. Rinso makes the hardest water soapy all through.

Easy on clothes and hands

It's such fun to rinse off the creamy Rinso suds and find the wash whiter—without one bit of hard rubbing! Hands stay young, clothes wear longer, when the wash is done this gentle way.

Now you don't even need to boil the wash! Rinso whitens and sterilizes without boiling. And it's so safe. Contains no acids, bleaches or harmful chemicals.

See for yourself, next washday, how a tubful of rich Rinso suds soaks your wash spotless. It's all you need—no bar soaps, chips or powders.

Get Rinso from your grocer. For economy and best results follow the easy directions on the package.

In washing machines, too

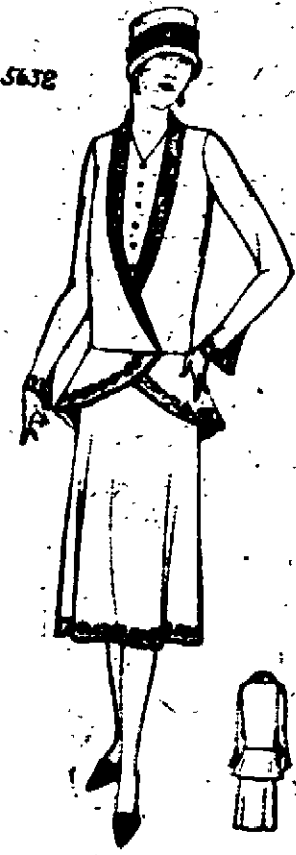

Rinso is great for washers. The makers of 30 leading machines recommend it for safety, and for a whiter, brighter wash.—Lester Bros. Co.

The Best of 250 Shampoos

By Edna Wallace Hopper

Here is an example of how I got the best beauty skin created.

A famous laboratory sent me some shampoos. They said, "we have spent 40 years in the study of shampooing. We made up and tested over 250 formulas before we perfected this. Here is the final result. It not only leaves hair soft and clean, but it gives a sunny glow."

Well, I found they were right. My hair was like a halo after using it. I called it Edna Wallace Hopper's Shampoo. All better shampoos now supply it at five per bottle under the guarantee. On the person with little hair a trial bottle, also see Beauty Book. Try it for your own sake. You will be amazed and delighted.

Sunday School League Results

The Redeemer quintet scored another victory in the Senior Sunday School League Wednesday night the Y. M. C. A. court when they defeated the First Dutch 25 to 13. At the end of the first half the teams were even as far as the number of points were concerned but the Redeemer five pulled away from the Dutchmen in fine style during the second frame. Irwin was leading scorer of the First Dutch aggregation and safely landed 5 from the floor. Chet Fox did the usual good work for the victors. He sunk four from the scene of action and three from the free throw line.

The Clinton Avenue Seniors gave the Congregationals a severe drubbing when they overcame them 36 to 19. The Clintons were in wonderful shape and Boyce was exceptionally good for he tossed the air filled chamber through the hoops for 11 ironmen. Niles corralled 14 markers while DeGraff made 10 for the victors. Cassell did the best for the Ponckhockie lads and his total was 7. The conquered team was handicapped in the second half when R. Planthaber and Lebert were foreen to quit the contest because of the limit of personal fouls leaving three men to play the game.

The Presbyterian overcame the Comforter five 39 to 25. The victors headed the contest early in the first half and never let the Comforters get sufficient footing to bag the contest. Kennedy dropped 22 markers, Blackwell and Schaffer each corralled 10 markers. Williams did the scintillating for the Comforter five and led with 10 points.

The American Derby.

Chicago, Feb. 10. (AP)—Sentiment will be played against gold at Washington Park this year. Robert M. Switzer, president and general manager of the Illinois Jockey Club, said today when he announced that the American Derby will hang up a prize of only $25,000 this year. He explained that the $100,000 race last year attracted only a mediocre field. He hopes that the glory of winning an American derby will again overshadow its monetary value.

Ruth's Contract War Started

Babe Declares If Better Terms Are Not Offered Him He Will Quit Baseball—Bambino's Figure Placed at $75,000.

New York, Feb. 10. (AP)—Echoes of the first shots fired in Babe Ruth's long anticipated contract war with the New York Yankees sounded through the baseball world today in the wake of one of the most important player deals of the winter.

Hardly had Colonel Jacob Ruppert, president of the Yankees, announced that the salary conflict was on than the Bambino levelled his guns on New York, all the way from the Pacific coast, where he is making a movie.

The Babe has returned the contract Ruppert offered him unsigned, he said, because the terms called for the same salary he has received for the past three years—$52,000. And unless better terms are offered him, why "I'll quit baseball," he announced from Hollywood.

In New York, Colonel Ruppert said the big home run hitter would not be allowed to report to the training camp at St. Petersburg, Fla., until he signs a new contract. Right back across the country came Ruth's declaration that he would report in the south on March 5 whether or not the contract question had been settled by that time.

"I'm not saying what terms I want or what I would accept," baseball's premier slugger said. "That's to be worked out with the clubowner. But unless the terms are satisfactory, I'll quit baseball if necessary. I wouldn't like to do that, of course."

Ruth's declaration spiked a rumor prevalent in New York that Colonel Ruppert's break with his star outfielder had followed Babe's refusal to sign for a single year at a $75,000 salary. Babe was thought to have demanded a contract covering several years with the figures in the vicinity of $100,000 per season.

Out on the coast, Babe declared that his income was not necessarily dependent upon his diamond activities, and would not be less than his present salary if he were to quit baseball entirely. Although he has just completed a ten-week vaudeville tour and is now engaged in film work, he "wouldn't have to depend on them" either, he said.

"Irish" Meusel Accepts Terms.

A second New York favorite, also in movie work on the coast, Emil "Irish" Meusel, meanwhile, became embroiled in a controversy between the Brooklyn Robins and Cincinnati Reds as to which club would boast his services in 1927. The Robins, through President Wilbert Robinson, announced an agreement had been reached with the former Giant outfielder for 1927 just as Manager Jack Hendricks of the Reds was reporting the same time.

Meusel, who purchased his release from the Giant fold last fall, was reported by Brooklyn to have accepted terms by telegraph Monday. A contract, at a figure reported to be $10,000, was mailed to him in Hollywood Tuesday, Robinson said. Hendricks said he had accepted Meusel's terms after the announcement that Cincinnati had traded Eddie Roush, outfielder, to New York for George Kelly, Giant first baseman.

The latter deal, one of the most unexpected and sensational in a winter of wholesale changes and barter, was completed yesterday. No cash was involved. Although a trade involving either Kelly or Bill Terry, substitute first baseman, was not unlooked for in Giant quarters, the deal for Roush

Sport Followers Suing "Everyone"

New York, Feb. 10. (AP)—A sport organization known as the Sport Followers of Fair Play League is suing everyone connected with the Rosenberg-Graham fight for $3, the Herald-Tribune says today.

The league charges that the bout was advertised as a bantamweight championship contest at Madison Square Garden last Friday night when in reality no title was at stake. A rule of the New York Boxing Commission limits the cost of fight tickets to $7 except in the case of championship contests, when $10 tickets are sold.

Rosenberg, scheduled to defend his bantam title against Graham in a 15 round match, vacated the championship action to his articles of agreement for the fight when he weighed in at 122½ pounds before the match. Graham, weighing 117½, was beaten decisively.

Papers in the Fair Play League suit will be served on Tex. Rickard, president of the Garden, John S. Hammond, vice-president; Boxing Commissioners Farley, Bower and Muldoon; and the boxers and managers, the Herald-Tribune says.

The boxing commission already is investigating the match and reports of a private agreement between the boxers. Harry Segal, manager of Rosenberg, and William Parr, manager of Graham, have been asked to appear before the commission tomorrow.

PLANTS NEED FOOD!

Water and Sunshine Not Enough—Food Needed to Develop Full Vitality and Beauty.

"Plant Luck" is a byword among flower lovers everywhere. Most people think that success with plants is more or less of a gamble. They forget that plants are living organisms—that they drink, breathe and eat. Therefore, plants need water, air, sunshine and food.

Henceforth it has been a problem to know how to feed plants. Now, however, an organization of horticultural specialists has solved the plant food problem by developing what are called Fertilis Tablets. You simply place a tablet near the root of each plant and the result is new life, greater vitality, more beautiful blossoms, more luxuriant foliage.

Fertilis Tablets are concentrated plant food in handy, convenient form. They come 100 in a box and sell for 25c. They also come in a tin containing 1000 at $2.00. Druggists, Florists, Seed Houses and General Stores supply Fertilis Tablets. Local stores report quite an interest in these "life savers" for plants. Fertilis Tablets are also wonderful for cut flowers; they prolong the freshness and beauty to a remarkable extent. Easy directions are included with each box. Get a box today. If your dealer can't supply, order direct from International Agricultural Corporation, 61 Broadway, New York.

PLANNING TO PUT VOLCANO TO WORK

Scientists Seek Method of Harnessing Crater.

Not so many years ago the people of Iceland conceived the idea of harnessing the famous hot springs which abound in that country and, by means of pipes, conveying the hot water to their homes for heating and domestic purposes.

The wise men of Naples, Italy, are seeking for some method of impressing the volcano, Little Vesuvius, into service, and utilizing its heat for train car operation.

For 800 years the crater at Pozzuoli was considered extinct. A few years ago it awakened, and two volcanic cauldrons opened at the crater base, while more recently an eruptive mouth appeared.

Men of science consider that if the forces, heat and electricity, at this point were controlled by a power plant, it would be possible not only to provide sufficient electricity for the supply of the surrounding towns, but for Naples as well.

The great difficulty is in finding a piping which can resist the corroding power of the hydro-sulphides and sulphur dioxide of the soil near the volcanic mouth.

The commune of Naples had a huge iron pipe sunk, but after a short time it was entirely destroyed by the action of these gases. Later a smaller pipe of white metal was used, but this, too, corroded.

So far it has not been possible to find a piping which lasts more than a few weeks, after being sunk.

The Solfatara, ever since Roman times, has been celebrated for its curative properties.

In Roman days its baths were famous and today remains of them can be seen in the hillside.

Since the war the sulphurous vapors from the different apertures have brought health to many ex-soldiers suffering from lung trouble.

During the past five years vast quantities of kaolin have been taken from the crater basin, for the Neapolitan industry of chalk statuettes.

It was this extensive digging which caused the ground to cave in, when a volcanic cauldron of lava mud made its appearance.

A small observatory was erected, in order that the crater could be studied. The volcano was given the name of "Little Vesuvius," though it is miles away from Mount Vesuvius, and situated on the other side of Naples.

Experts consider the Pozzuoli crater as far more wonderful than Vesuvius itself.

The heat generated by the mud cauldron is 100 degrees hotter than boiling water, and is thus capable of generating power for electrical purposes.

Its vapors also carry a positive charge of electricity.

The only recorded eruption of lava from Solfatara is one of doubtful authenticity ascribed to the year 1198.

Early Life Insurance

Originally life insurance was not much more than an incident of marine insurance. When the success or failure of a voyage depended largely on the personal qualities of the master of the ship, the owners of ship and cargo would insure themselves not only against the perils of deep, but also against the danger of loss through the death of the master—that is, they took out insurance on the life of the master for the voyage. These early life insurance policies were written by individuals long before life insurance companies came into existence. The earliest policy of which anything definite is known was issued in London in 1583, insuring the life of one William Cymbons for 12 months. This was underwritten by 13 persons acting individually; the premium was $80 per thousand. A similar policy would cost today about $10, at age thirty-five.

Storms and Headaches

Each of us is carrying through life an enormous weight in the form of the pressure of the outside atmosphere upon our bodies. We don't it is true, notice it, because inside our bodies is another pressure (in our blood, and so forth) which exactly balances the outside pressure.

Were it not for this equalizing pressure, we should experience grave discomfort just as do mountain explorers who go to great heights where the air is "thinner."

Roughly speaking, this is generally what causes many people trouble in a thunderstorm. The atmospheric pressure alters suddenly and disturbs the balance, with the result that the arteries swell up and probably affect the brain and nerve centers, causing a headache.

EVERY VILLAGE HAS ITS LOAFER

"Town Bum" Holds Peculiar Position in Eyes of Fellow Citizens.

New York.—Every village has its "town bum." His is an indispensable position in the strata of civilization, and after the proud citizen has shown the visitor the new bank and the volunteer fire department he ends his discourse on the natural and acquired advantage of his town by pointing out its local loafer.

"There," he says, and there is a note of pride in his voice, "is Albert. He has been our town bum, man and boy, for more than sixty years." Since the day when Rip Van Winkle aroused the Dutch ire of his spouse by loitering in the sully doorway and watching the fence fall down and the weeds grow up, the position of town bum has been one of distinction. Rip is the patron saint of them all, and every village street corner is a shrine to his memory at which the local high priest of vagrancy and his proselytes hang out and worship.

Highwood is different from other New England towns in only one respect. It has a "town bum" who is the paragon of all "town bums." He possesses all the virtues that go to make up perfection in his profession, and he is devoid of all the vices that might tend to lessen his dignity.

Albert was born in Highwood almost seventy years ago. The town was then a settlement of a few straggling farmhouses clinging to the skirts of a neighboring manufacturing city. No one knows where his people came from. They were, all agree, of old New England stock that had gone to seed. They may have been among the Puritans who planted an ascetic civilization in the land of the Pequots. His forefathers may have hurried their javelins side by side with Harold at Hastings when the linguistic future of America was being decided. But these are things that the town people do not concern themselves with. All they know and care about, where Albert is concerned, is that he is the "town bum," and that he will be a local celebrity until the day of his death.

Peerless Albert.

Albert stands without a peer on the sunny corners of Highwood or shuffles without an equal up its shady streets. There is a good natured, contemptuous cynicism in the way he hangs his head obliquely toward the ground. Conventions and civilizations may change, but not all the mutations between infinity and eternity could cause Albert to consciously shift his position one fraction of an inch.

For almost seventy years he has looked on life with a sophisticated scorn that should chill the blood in the veins of those for whom he serves as a butt for practical jokes. Atrabilious he appears; but there is nothing about his actions or words that would indicate that he is a hypochondriac. He is a philosopher of loafers, who has summed up the philosophy of all ages and has weighed life in the scales only to find that it totals up to the same sum for all persons during all the ages. And Albert is satisfied that that sum is nothing.

Every calling, however ignoble, must have its great men and occasionally a superman called a genius stands out over the heads of his illustrious brothers. Albert is such a genius in the fraternity of "town bums." "Honest as the day is long," they say of him. Temptation has whispered in his ear, but it has never changed the angle of inclination at which he peers upward and plantwise at life. In the days before prohibition he was the porter in the town's outstanding meeting place for the thirsty, who visited the drug store only for pills and the various other household accessories that the village pharmacy carried.

Albert was partial to liquor of all kinds; but he never allowed this bias to interfere with his code of honesty. He was never known to take a drop unless he was invited. With complete confidence the bartender would pour him into the cellar to fill bottles, and Albert would always come up as dry as he went down. The pathos of all the ages is written in this trait, for he was the inheritor of a principle of honesty that allowed him to do nothing contrary to the consciences which his fellows were supposed to possess.

Albert the Paradoxical.

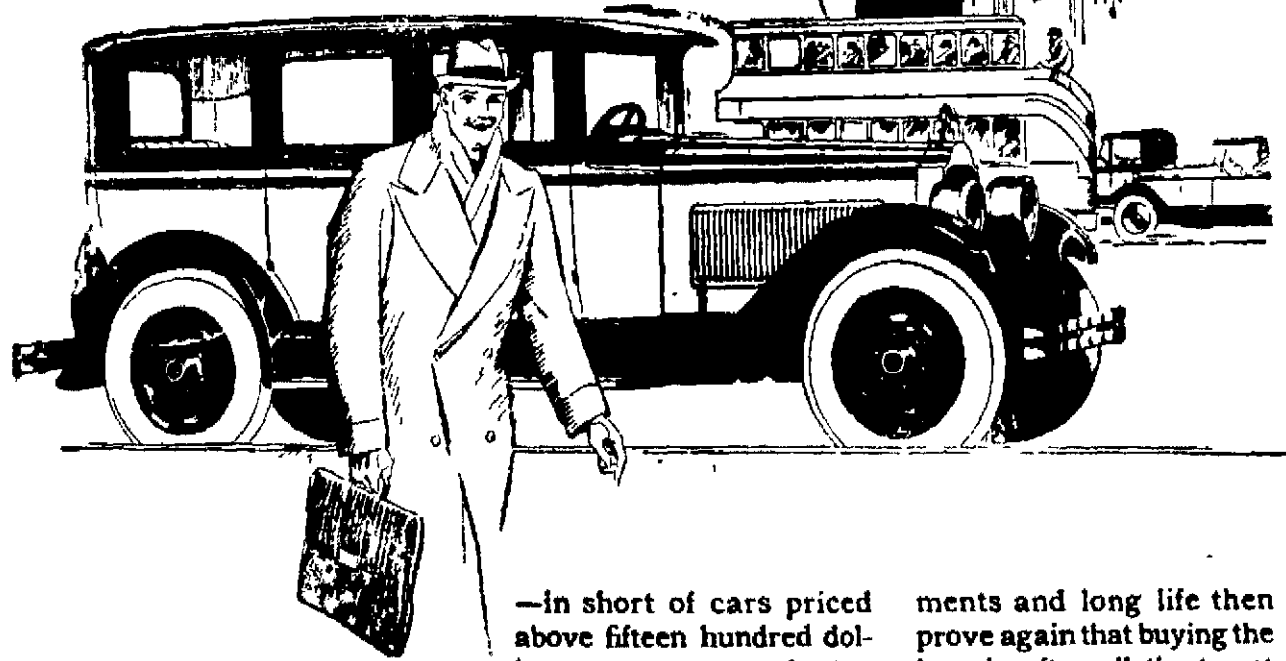

There is nothing in it, also. For Albert, all the townsmen agree, has no conscience. If he had, they argue, he would have pride. Ergo, he would labor from day to day as other men do; and Albert, who lives up to the code his fellows profess to have, is condemned by his own code in the eyes of the town people; but by a queer quirk, characteristic to most people, the very ones who despise Albert for leading astray him for his honesty and point him out with a grudging contempt as a famous local personage.

Some years ago he was walking along the railroad tracks. The then President Roosevelt whizzed by in his "special" on a tour of the country. He saw Albert and he waved the customary gesture that is interpreted as democracy. Albert saw him and he kept on his way. Presidents or emperors might wave to him, but he has a democracy that is above the conceptions of others. It does not allow him to wave to anyone. Those who saw the incident took it upon themselves to make the subject of local reports. Albert only shrugged his shoulders and said: "Shucks, he waves to everyone," and went on toward the sea to dig clams.

Long before this incident he had his shirt and perhaps his only distinction. In those days the West was sweeping through the nation, and Albert, being the only person in the town who had a shirt, was paid, he was were ravaging the plains, and he felt the call of romance that gunpowder and imagination bring to the young. Several weeks later Albert dropped off a freight train and landed in Bolivia. His philosophy did not allow him to accept discipline blindly. He had been sent to a nearby station. There he had joined the army to wear a uniform, ride a horse and gallop over the plains after Comanches. He left the army "for the good of the service."

Alfred He Watched Passing Show. This was a disgrace in his eyes. It was simply a misunderstanding on the part of the War department. The years passed and he grew gray and grizzled with their passing. Between long intervals of looking he worked at odd jobs. He watched about as the town was displaced by horses. He saw the advent of the electric car that linked the city with the village, and he witnessed the growth of the village into the neighboring city until a signpost on a smooth-paved avenue informed the pedestrian tourist that he was out of one place and into the other.

Make Millions From Act That Cost His Job

LA Paz, Bolivia.—When Simon T. Patton was a poor bill collector in outlying country districts in Bolivia he accepted some sales prospects in payment of a $200 account from a business man. For this his firm discharged him. Today he is making about $200,000 annually from the sales.

It was 25 years ago that Patton was "killed on the carpet" for accepting the sales leads in payment for a bill owed a mercantile house in La Paz. The firm discharged $200 from his pay and, as soon as this was paid, he was discharged.

Jobless and penniless, Patton and his wife went to look over the mine prospects. Digging around, he found large quantities of tin. He mined by hand until he made enough money to buy machinery. Today he is making an income larger than that of the Bolivia government. He is the Croesus of South America, his friends assert.

Patton's mine includes 75 claims spread over 5,000 acres of land and including a 37 mile railroad. Engineers estimate 1,941,000 tons of tin have been taken out this year.

Patton now desires to retire and is turning the management of his business over to his son. The family resides in New York city at present.

Costs Thread Family Has 11 Millionaires

Glenn.—Every millionaire is the record of the family of J. and F. Cost, cotton manufacturers. James Cost, who founded the business in 1824, became a millionaire, as did his three sons and all their grandsons. The present head of the family is the young Lord Glenan, a director of the firm, a former officer in the British War, and one of Britain's most "beloved" noblemen. His father left a fortune of nearly $5,000,000.

James Cost started his business in the Scottish village of Forquah. When the father and son James died the business passed into the hands of Thomas and Peter.

Peter was knighted and had a son who became Sir Peter Cost. His brother Thomas was father of the first baron in the Cost family. Lord Glenan, father of the present younger son.

much, in the opinion of Judge Samuel Shay, of the Camden criminal court. The jurist said this after he had listened for 15 minutes to Mrs. Alexander Froxup upbraid her husband, whom she charged with desertion. It took him three minutes to halt her testimony.

"I'm convinced," Judge Shay said, "that such domestic trouble is due to the fact that wives talk too much. Wives would be a lot better off if they talked less. You took this man for better or worse, but your troubles have not reached the limit where they cannot be forgotten."

The judge advised the pair to adjust mutually their differences and dismissed the case.

Picking Up Pin Didn't Bring Albert Any Luck

Lafayette, Wis.—No more will Albert Conklin "pick up a pin" when he sees a pin. "Believing in the adage, 'See a pin and pick it up and all that day you'll have good luck,' Conklin stopped down in front of the post office to get the pin. As he did so his head bumped the brick wall. His hat rolled into the street. His glasses fell to the sidewalk and were broken. His suspenders came away. Last, but not least, the buttonhole in the back of his collar was torn out.

How Apes Kiss

The apes, in their love-making, kiss in the same manner as some humans. An ape which was part of a colony being observed for scientific purposes was dying and a few minutes before the end took the head of her keeper in her two hands and kissed it solemnly.

In the same ape colony "Anana" and his father, "Simba," developed the trick of clapping with their hands at the approach of the attendants with food. "Anana" applauds his own acrobatic performance and joins with visitors in applauding anything that receives their appreciation.

Apes seem to be as eager as humans for the companionship of their kind, and as dependent upon it for contentment and happiness.—Chicago Journal.

First Fossil

What is probably the first fossil to have been collected is man in the possession of Barrow, Alaska, and a number of fossil reptiles in the American Museum of Natural History. The priceless fossil is an eight-inch long, dating back around 5,000,000 years and was picked up by Mr. Brown in the ruins of the Aztec, the medical school of ancient Greece, where Hippocrates, the father of medicine, carried on his studies.

Roman Numerals

The Romans had no symbols to indicate mathematical processes and operations. Originally they expressed every process and operation in words of full length. Their mathematical calculations were never simplified. They then to abbreviate numbers, 100, into C; 500, into D; 1,000, into M, and so on. The Romans were never reported speaking a word of mathematics and they contributed little to the culture.

ISABEL STANBAUGH TO VISIT FRANCE

Among the reservations made for the trip to France with the American Legion next September is that of Miss Isabel Stanbaugh, a Legionnaire of Philadelphia, one of the three women to be awarded a Distinguished Service cross in the American forces of the World war. She was under fire five days in front-line dressing stations when the Germans were making their drive on the channel ports, near Amiens.

She wears the Royal Red cross of the British government, the American D. S. C., and a gold emblem of the American Legion with silver center to denote that she was "wounded in action." The Legion button is the gift of San Francisco Legionnaires. She lived in San Francisco following the convention there in 1924, but recently moved to Philadelphia.

Miss Stanbaugh was decorated in June, 1919. Col. William Mitchell, then a brigadier general, and other officers, received the D. S. C. in the same group with Miss Stanbaugh. She went overseas with Pennsylvania base hospital No. 10, organized in Philadelphia and attached to the British forces with five other American base hospitals.

Montenegrin Decorations for South Carolina Men

Four medals from the king of Montenegro were presented at a meeting of Richmond post of the American Legion in Columbia, S. C., recently, to honor South Carolina men who won the congressional medal of honor in the World war. Governor McLeod made the presentations, representing the Montenegrin monarch.

Mrs. Carrie Heriott received the medal for her son, James D. Heriott, who lost his life in France; George Hall received the medal for his brother, Thomas Lee Hall, who also was killed, while Gary Evans Foster and James C. Dwyer were present to receive their awards in person.

Two other South Carolina medal of honor men had previously been presented with the Montenegrin decoration.

First 1927 Charter Is Mailed to Athens, Greece

The first charter of the new year to be issued to a new American Legion post was mailed to Athens, Greece, by national headquarters of the American Legion in Indianapolis, Ind. The post is named Athens Post No. 1, and the charter went forward to Henry C. H. Stewart, the organizer, one-time commander of the Murray Hill post in New York city, and now in Athens, care of the American consulate.

Several of the charter members who signed the application for the charter gave their addresses as with the American consulate, and some were with the Standard Oil company. James F. Barton, national adjutant of the Legion, said, Stewart wrote that he believed 150 American World war veterans in Athens will join the post.

Would Turn Battlefield Into Big Memorial Park

The Good-Better-Best post of the American Legion of Springfield, Mo., is taking active leadership in urging that the Wilson Creek battleground of the Civil war be made into a national memorial park. The battlefield contains 1,200 acres, about two-thirds of it in Greene county and the rest in Christian county. It is particularly attractive from a scenic standpoint. Wilson creek, from which the battlefield is named, winds through the tract and materially adds to the beauty of the place.

Important Elements

There is a firm proposed by C. Paul to locate the popular breakfasting and dining establishment in the new grain. It is probable that other ventures will be discovered by some investigators.

Poultry Clubs Meet Next Week

On November 1 the Ulster County Farm Bureau together with L. M. Hurd of the poultry department at Cornell organized two poultry record clubs in Ulster county, one in the Wallkill Valley with eleven members and the other in the Rosendell Valley and Kingston vicinity with twelve members. The purpose of these clubs is to keep an accurate record of the poultry business on individual farms.

The poultrymen keep account of the production and feed costs during the month and at the end of the third month, the Farm Bureau holds a meeting to discuss the results of these records. Prof. L. M. Hurd is scheduled to return to the county for two meetings of the club. They are as follows:

Sunday, February 14—Kingston court house, 7:30 p. m.

Tuesday, February 15—Gardiner.
Central Co.-op., 7:30 p. m.
Not only are these meetings for club members but for all poultrymen interested in keeping such records.

CONSUMER ENLARGING SAUGERTON HIGH SCHOOL

At a meeting of the Saugerties board of education held on Monday evening the matter of taking up the work of building an addition to the present high school building was discussed. It was decided to have Wilson Potter of New York city, who was the architect of the present building, come before the board and submit a set of plans together with recommendations. The building committee had conferred with Irving S. Sears, field representative of the State Education Department, before this action was taken. The present enrollment of the high school is 240 and lower grades are overflowing with part time schooling.

School No. 1 P. T. A.
On Tuesday evening a very interesting meeting was held by the Parent-Teacher Association of School No. 1. Routine business was transacted at the conclusion of which Founder's Day was duly observed. The speakers of the evening were Mrs. Harry Dederick and Mrs. William Longyear. Two recitations entitled "P. T. A." by A. McClellan, were given by S. Savitch and L. Guenise and "For Others" by Frances Quigley. Following the meeting refreshments were served by the ladies of the association.

Signing the Constitution
Samuel, the historian, says that eleven of the thirteen state delegates signed the proposed Constitution. Since the two other delegates had previously left the convention, the signing was unanimous. All perhaps had grave doubts about one feature or provision or another, but they had builded better than they knew, and they all had the courage to sign the concrete result of their arduous work.

Sporting Squibs

The Boston Red Sox are going to train again at New Orleans.

Jack Dempsey is considered the hardest puncher of all heavyweights.

Billy Bridwell, amateur golf champion of Arkansas is only fifteen years old.

Football, says Howard Jones, is our greatest builder of men. And of stadiums.

Jerry West, right halfback, has been elected captain of Penn's 1927 soccer eleven.

The Denver club of the Western league will do its spring training in southern California.

Of the 15,000 bowlers in Philadelphia, 1,000 are women. Throughout the city there are but 165 public saloons.

Of course, when the left-hand turn is abolished everywhere, Babe Ruth will have to go round the bases the other way.

Only four players have been killed in rugby football in Canada since the game was first introduced there some forty or fifty years ago.

Eric Hagenlacher, former world's champion in 1922 billiards, is equally effective in playing delicate snooker shots with either hand.

The Harrisburg club of the New York-Pennsylvania league has sold Arthur Mueller and Martin Kline to the Williamsport club of the same league.

Dartmouth swimmers are expected to prove real rivals for Yale and Princeton, who have dominated intercollegiate swimming competition in recent years.

The Belmont Futurity, two-year-old classic, to be run at Belmont park next fall, will be worth more than $100,000, making it the richest turf event in the country.

The Giants will be "a real pennant contender" with the infusion of Rogers Hornsby's fighting spirit, thinks Ross Young, veteran outfielder of the New York team.

Walter Johnson, veteran pitcher of Washington, started off the new year by signing a one-year contract. It marks his 21st consecutive year as a member of the Senators.

"Buddy" Crawford, veteran hockey player now with Minneapolis, played on about every professional team in Canada before the National Hockey League broke into the United States.

Fewer new players were tried out in championship games in the major leagues during 1926 than in any year since 1921, only 90 new faces breaking into the best scores in the last pennant chase.

The entire German nation is not so nothing a few showing in the next Olympic games at Amsterdam. It being estimated that there are 15,000 Germans in real training for athletic events.

Chatter boxettes of Cleveland just failed to get in the last boxing circle last season. After getting away to a crowded start, Jameson found his coming was later in the chase, finishing with a mark of 320.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Feb. 10 (AP).—Speculative operations for the advance shifted from the rails to the industrial in today's stock market. With public enthusiasm for the rails temporarily chilled by yesterday's demoralizing market in those issues, operators for the rise began bidding up selected industrial and specialties in an endeavor to obtain an outside figure.
Baldwin was again an outstanding feature, touching 176, the highest price ever recorded, with short covering operations playing a prominent part in the advance.

Hope of a cut in the New York Federal Reserve discount rate after the close of today's market was practically abandoned when no change was announced in the Boston Federal Reserve and Bank of England rates.
Most traders have been expecting a cut in the British rate to precede one here. Banks called about $15,000, 000 in loans, but the call rate held steady at 4 per cent.

Other railroad equipments followed the lead of Baldwin, American Brake-shoe and Foundry jumping five points and American Locomotive, Lima Locomotive and American Car and Foundry climbing two points or more.

Italy was sluggish. Pittsburgh and West Virginia broke six points and Western Maryland common and second preferred and Chicago and Greatwestern common sold down three points or so. Wheeling and Lake Erie common was unusually quiet, but advanced from its opening price of 80 to 85. The premium for loaning the stock was quoted at 3/4 of one per cent with no borrowing demand.

High priced specialties in which there is a small floating supply responded briskly to the appearance of buying support. International Harvester, Case Threshing Machine, South Porto Rican Sugar and United States Cast Iron Pipe were among the leaders.

United States Steel common was heavy on the announcement that unfilled orders dropped over 160,000 tons last month, a decrease of only about 100,000 tons having been expected.

80th Birthday of Thomas A. Edison

New York, Feb. 10 (AP).—Thomas Alva Edison today stands on the threshold of the realm of the octogenarians. Tomorrow is his eightieth birthday.

A reception in his home, Llewellyn Park, East Orange, N. J., at which Henry Ford, a close friend, is expected, and the annual meeting in Newark of the Edison pioneers, a group of men associated with the wizard of Menlo Park for many years, will be special features of the day.

The tiny red brick laboratory in West Orange, where Edison has been blazing scientific trails for forty years, has been prepared to receive cable and wireless greetings from all parts of the world which already have started to pour in.

From Edward Branly, noted psychicist, in Paris comes a message. "I thought Edison was an old man. He is a mere youngster." Prof. Branly is 82. He continues: "I am sure Edison feels as I do; namely, that in our work our age never changes."

Finished

A traveling man put up one night in a cheap little hotel, where the thin partitions of a range of bedrooms, like the stalls of a stable, stopped halfway to the ceiling. And in the still watch of the night he lay awake and listened to the faintest demonstration of plain and fancy snoring that he had ever been his fate to hear. It was full of sudden and awful variations. Sometimes straggling seemed imminent; then, in the middle of a fantasia, the snorer stopped suddenly, and there was silence.
From a nearby room he heard a voice exclaim wearily, "Thank goodness! He's dead!"

Landmark on Old Trail

One of the early landmarks was erected on the Santa Fe trail, in what is now Harton county, Kan.
This giant rock standing on the level plain was a noted spot, for the trail ran near its base. It provided a place of rest and safety for many a traveler. In later years this landmark was disappearing. The woman's knee was disengaged to save the historic spot and secured a deed for the rock and five acres surrounding it.
On Kansas day, 1900, the woman presented this deed to the state. This was done with the condition that the state spend $1000 for improvements.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT
By F. A. WALKER

DO IT TODAY!

FREQUENTLY in these days we hear it said among those who habitually dawdle and put off, that "tomorrow will do! Tomorrow I shall feel in a better mood, and then I will turn over a new leaf and show my employer what there is in me."
"I'm not in tune today. I lost a bit of sleep last night and am nervous and irritable. I must have my amusements, though, or I shall grow stale."

Unfortunately for these people who tarry and wait and lag, tomorrow never arrives. It is just as far off as it was a fortnight ago, just as elusive and deceptive.

The pernicious habit of dallying, of postponing until tomorrow while the world keeps calling for action today, is one of the most ruinous in the lives of the young.

We are all on speaking terms with today, but tomorrow is a stranger, famous for ingenuity in dangling hope before our sleepy eyes and tricking us year after year.

In the closet of good resolutions, where we sometimes secrete ourselves in order to turn the leaves of the past, and scan the hastily scribbled entries we have put upon them, we make this unwelcome discovery with a pang of regret.

To be perturbed and clouded at such times is natural, but if we continue to hang fire, to persist in disregarding today and still keep up our silly struggle with tomorrow, we do those things at our peril.

We grow less resolute and in a little while we become abject creatures of misfortune.

It takes two to make your success,
your employer and yourself.
And what you do, the manner and promptness in which you do it, is your greatest asset, and ought to be your chief concern.

If you regularly put off today's duties until tomorrow, keep disregarding today's handshakes and cheating yourself with the foolish idea that you will in some miraculous way "catch up" you are simply speeding the hour when your employer will abruptly dissolve partnership with you.

And the main side to this is that by waiting for tomorrow you are deliberately hastening your ultimate downfall and ruining your future prospects.

SAWS
By Viola Brothers Shore

FOR THE GOOSE—

IT'S easier to strangle the first desirer than feed all the ones that's born from it.

Tryin' to learn a kid some'n without first aroun' his interest is hammerin' cold iron.

If a woman keeps changin' her maids all the time it's a sign of some'n. And if she has the same one for ten years it's a sign of some'n, too. Dumb luck.

FOR THE GANDER—

Lawyers, judges and doctors is nice people to meet socially.

The thing about learnin' ain't so much that it makes you fit company for other folks, but for yourself.

When he can't get his car to go, the last thing a guy usually thinks about, is if there's enough gas in the tank.
And instead of bein' relieved when he finds out that's all that's the matter, he generally gets madder than a one-armed auto player whose nose itches.

WHAT THE GRACIOUS HOSTESS SAYS:

By DELLA THOMPSON LUDS

INFORMAL DINNER MENU

THE informal dinner menu should consist of a soup, a meat or meat substitute, two vegetables, olives, pickles, or other relish. Grapefruit is often served instead of soup, especially in warm weather. The salad should be served separately, and it is a pretty custom to make it at the table after everything has been removed except the bread and butter plates and glass. Making a salad may be a very artistic performance, and a hostess
